Local Man Shoots Wife; Kills Self

The community of Canal Point was deeply shocked Monday morning when it was learned one of its well-known residents, Melvin Jones, 33, apparently in a deranged state of mind, had purchased a .22 caliber pistol at the local hardware store and shortly after 8 a. m. had entered the rear entrance of Shackford's Restaurant, faced his wife, Christidell Jones 29, who was working in the restaurant for her mother, Mrs. W. R. Shackford, and, without saying a word, shot her, the bullet passing through her right arm and into her chest, killing her instantly.

Jones then, according to investigating officers, turned and walked out of the restaurant and wandered in a daze toward his home across the street from Pope's nursery, (continued on page 5)

The front exterior will be finished with slump brick.

Alvin H. Armstrong of Hialeah, son of Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong, is the designer and builder. He estimates the construction will require approximately two months.

Here Is What Transpired At Monday's Meeting Of The Palm Beach County Commission

An extensive road building project which entails construction of some nine miles of farm to market roads was being studied by the county commission this week. The project, which calls for replacement of seven bridges across the Hillsboro and West Palm Beach canals, was brought to the commission by the Central and South Florida Flood Control Board.

Under FCD plans, both the West Palm Beach and the Hillsboro canals are to be widened and in sections where this work is to be done, the FCD says it is necessary to replace about 20 bridges now crossing the canals, and to construct new roads to connect the replacement bridges with present roads along the canals.

Under the plan proposed this week, the FCD will underwrite cost of the new bridges—about $350,000 worth of construction. The flood board asked the county to do the road work, which the commission said would cost between $40,000 and $50,000. The road work is planned for completion within the next 18 months. Construction of the roads now, according to County Engineer Steve Middleton, represents a future saving of about $300,000 in future county road funds.

In other actions in the road and bridge work, the commission this week:

Approved plans for a dedication plaque for Canal Point Bridge asked by Commissioner Paul Rardin.

Approved a resolution taking over maintenance of roads in Englewood Manor subdivision near Lake Worth asked by Commissioner Roy Michael. The board also approved Michael's request for purchase of a plot of right of way at Congress Ave. and Lucerne extension at a price of $350.

The commission also: Adopted a resolution of sympathy in the death of L. Trevette Lockwood, town manager of Palm Beach and a former county commissioner who died March 29.

Granted a 15-day military leave to Middleton who goes to Washington D. C. May 1 for a two week tour of active duty with the U. S. Engineers.

Heard a report from County Agent M. U. Mounts that his department was moving into the county's new agricultural headquarters on Military Trail. In connection with the agricultural department's move, the commission voted to sell the frame house near the court house which has been used for several weeks as county agricultural headquarters. The area where the house is located is to be converted into a parking lot.

Took under advisement, a request from the Florida National Guard asking the use of county rockpit on Lake Park West Road as a training site for National Guard troops.

Cinematic Chatter

By Malcolm Millar

Hello everybody! When Sterling Hayden takes to the high seas again it will be for a long cruise far from the "milk route" run to Catalina Island. "I'm as keen on the sea and sailing as ever," Hayden said, "but I don't own a boat now, and I don't expect to get another one for at least two, more years. When I do, I'll take her out for some real cruising." Hayden said he got tired of what passes for sailing in Hollywood nautical circles. The Catalina run became a routine bore and having a trim craft tied up in port was just an aggravation, as well as an expensive temptation. "I'm restless enough without having a boat to tempt me," he said. "Right now I want to keep buckled down to serious work in pictures. Things are breaking great for me. I've never had such good opportunities and I can honestly say I feel a tremendous enthusiasm for my work." It was not always thus with the screens-blond viking. He took his first crack at pictures because he needed a job and a newspaper pal had told him he should be able to make a wad of folding cash in the movies. He did just that but walked out, or rather sailed out, on his screen career after achieving overnight stardom. After the war, in which he served with distinction in the Marines, Hayden returned to Hollywood and the films. He was still indifferent to his acting career, however, and for months at a time lived on his yacht. Quest, in Newport harbor and didn't bother to go near the studios. All that's changed now, Hayden said. The Quest is gone and so is his wanderlust. He has buckled down to his work and is doing great. See you at the movies—Mal.

"My Best Buy of the Year"

"Having a telephone put in our farm home was my best buy last year. It saves valuable time in ordering groceries, or getting a doctor or help from a neighbor. The joy it gives me to chat with a neighbor, invite someone to church, inquire about a sick friend, or receive long distance calls from my children in other states—in all these ways the telephone makes our farm life more worth-while." Mrs. I. E. Bazzell, Route 1, Box 164, Mountain Creek, Alabama.

Mrs. I. E. Bazzell of Mountain Creek, Alabama found her telephone so valuable she sent an unsolicited letter to The Progressive Farmer, through whose courtesy it is reprinted at the left.

A lot of people everywhere feel as Mrs. Bazzell does—that the telephone is their "best buy". On farms, in cities, day in and day out, the telephone serves in so many big and little ways. Yet its cost is small, less than a penny an hour for the average family.
